To CRPS Warriors,

Re: Letter of authorization to share study information with members

Thank you for agreeing to share information with your members about our study, “Motor priming in people with and without chronic pain”. I am writing to confirm that CRPS Warriors Foundation has permission to disseminate information about this study through its website, social media, membership lists, and any other means.

This study has received ethical approval by the University of Bath Psychology Research Ethics Committee, reference number 21-017.

The study will be active until we have reached our target sample size, or no later than 31st Dec 2022 (whichever comes first).

I can confirm that CRPS Warriors Foundation is not affiliated nor associated with this project or the University of Bath. The CWF will provide a hyperlink offered by us, a third party, so that people can find out more about the study and take part if they desire. CWF is not responsible for the content of the study, “Motor priming in people with and without chronic pain”. The inclusion of the hyperlink to the CWF websites and associated communications does not imply any endorsement or approval by CWF of the materials on such website or for such program. Participation by CWF members is strictly voluntary and is not a requirement of CWF membership.

Sincerely,

Janet Bultitude
